U.S. Will Supply Allies with Atom Arms, Ike Says

EVERYBODY, or almost everybody, is now very optimistic about the Middle Eastern situation. Peace has been saved." Nasser, who had always written off in London, has again been put "on probation" and in Washington they are confident that during the election campaign no more Middle Eastern crises are to be expected. Russia has relaxed, last (they say) cut-and-dried support for Egypt would have invited it sooner or later in a war which Moscow does not want. Consequently, Colonel Nasser, whether he likes it or not, will have to occupy himself with domestic affairs, and everything will be fine and quiet.

THERE is no need to get alarmed about these views, based on a profound misreading of the Middle Eastern situation. The optimists will become disappointed soon enough—in four, six or eight weeks' time when Nasser renews his campaign. There are few things in today's world one can be absolutely sure of, but this is one of them, because the Cairo junta has to expand or fall. There are in effect some signs which point to Egyptian aggression in a direction other than Israel, for hardly anybody believes in a possible military success against Israel now.

WHICH means that the Egyptian leaders will look for easier targets in the immediate future. According to the sources collected here in recent days, the Cairo junta has decided to concentrate in the near future on the struggle for Arabia. They want to squeeze the British out of Buraimi and the principalities in general. They have called their main agent in Bahrain, for consultations to Cairo, and decided about ways and means of starting real trouble in Bahrain and, if possible, Kuwait. Meanwhile, "Al Mawsawar" and other Egyptian periodicals have demanded Aden, thus opening another campaign by the Foreign Office will not greatly relax.

THEIR drive has already emanated Egypt in conflict with Persia and Turkey. "Sawt al Arab" solemnly announced the other day that the Persian claim to Bahrain is an act of hostility to the Arab nation. "The Persian Gulf," Cairo radio has demanded, should be renamed "Arabian Gulf." As for Turkey, angry diplomatic exchanges between Cairo and Ankara are again becoming more formidable. The Egyptians were offended by a speech in Teheran, and Colonel Nasser has declared that now Egypt has a bigger and better Air Force than Turkey (and generally speaking in becoming militarily stronger) relations between the Egyptian bloc and Turkey would soon be put on a different footing...

THE British will again be very offended, perform another agonizing reappraisal as far as Nasser is concerned and threaten to pull all their support behind the Baghdad Pact—unless they can be of help. The Americans are not to be envied either: the next (and bigger) Middle Eastern crisis will most probably come at the height of their presidential campaign. But did they really believe that poor Mr. Hammarskjöld would be able to "contain" Nasser longer than four, six or eight weeks?

24th Congress Ends In 12-Hour Session

Jerusalem Post Reporter

WASHINGTON, Monday (UPI).—President Eisenhowers reported to Congress yesterday that the U.S. plans to provide its North Atlantic Treaty partners with atomic weapons.

The U.S. plans to provide its NATO partners with certain types of modern defense weapons and equipment, and is now furnishing increasing numbers to our own NATO forces in Europe," he said.

Mr. Eisenhower disclosed that the U.S. had shipped more than $12,400 worth of planes, tanks, guns and other military supplies to friendly nations in the past six months. He said today that the U.S. was closely watching the Soviet change in tactics from threats and violence to "more subtle methods" to further the ends of Communism.

He again asked Congress to agree to the principle of a long-term foreign aid program to further the Soviet drive. The Administration must be able to meet special circumstances and to make long-range commitments to backward areas, he said.

Egypt Demands

Voice on Saar

BERLIN, Monday (UP).—East Germany yesterday demanded a voice in the settlement of the future of the coal-rich Saar territory. The two world leaders, letter to the West German Chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, the French Foreign Minister, M. Christian Pineau, and the Saar Premier, Mr. Hubert Koenig.

The East German move apparently was aimed at preventing the disputed industrial territory from using its resources to aid West German rearmament.

Premier Otto Grotewohl of East Germany, in letters to Dr. Adenauer and Mr. Pineau, proposed talks on the Saar's future among representatives of East and West Germany and the Saar.

Premier Grotewohl told Dr. Adenauer and M. Ney that the Saar must be considered German territory and the German people expect the lifting of all measures that incorporate the Saar in the sovereignty and economic areas of France.

In a separate letter to M. Pineau, the East German Foreign Minister, Lothar Bösch said that East Germany would not recognize any "unilateral agreement on the Saar concluded between West Germany and France."

Tito Calls For 'Impatience' On Arms Reduction

PARIS, Monday (Reuter).—President Tito tonight called for "impatience" over disarmament and similar questions.

"The armaments race called for enormous material resources which could undermine the well-being of humanity," the Yugoslav President said at a dinner given by President René Coty.

Marshall Tito, who arrived in Paris today on an official visit, said that the method of solving differences by war should be rejected. New ways should be found to foster understanding between states and peoples and there should be no impatience in seeking these solutions.

But "we must show our impatience in other spheres, for example, when it is a question of disarmament and other similar questions with which the world is confronted today," he added.

Lessons of Past

He urged the leaders of countries which are "victims of aggression" to learn appropriate lessons at least from the Second World War. They should beware of repeating the errors of the past and of obscuring the memory of the past or the horizons of the future, and they should bear in mind that which is essential—peace and international understanding and co-operation.

Tito was protected by an estimated 20,000 police, soldiers and airmen on his arrival.

Police were everywhere as he drove from the Bois de Boulogne railway station to the Presidential Palace, and later went to lay a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

It was finally decided outside the planatory that the Department for Religious Education would remain. The Halperin-Neumann "crisis" was solved by not appointing Acting Chairman of the Executives at the organization.

There were reports, however, that an informal decision had been reached to re-elect yearly the chairman in the New York Executive. It was also agreed that the Acting Chairman of the Executives in Jerusalem would be taken from Mitzrahi ranks, probably Mrs. Mazzi Sharav.

The sitting was finally resumed shortly after 6:00 a.m.

Mr. Joseph Sprinzak, President of the Congress, took the chair from Mrs. Golda Myerson who had presided since 8:30 in the evening.

Fraco-Tunisian Ties Strained

TUNIS, Monday (UP).—Premier Habib Bourguiba, his advisers today to prepare for Wednesday's talks in Paris with French Government leaders that may improve or break French-Tunisian relations.

The situation was further aggravated when the French High Commissioner failed to attend an invitation from Bourguiba's reception for the Consular Corps, which they claim is a systematic campaign of insults to French prestige.

Relations between the two countries have become severely strained and French newspapers, both right- and left-wing, have criticized Bourguiba's National Party Cabinet for what they claim is a systematic campaign of insults to French prestige.

The situation was further aggravated when the French High Commissioner failed to attend an invitation from Bourguiba's reception for the Consular Corps, which they claim is a systematic campaign of insults to French prestige.

For the second time, its transmission was interrupted by jamming from hostile broadcasters. After the broadcast ended with the march, "Land of Hope and Glory," a voice broke in saying "a man has been killed in the street." The contract for the weapons had been signed.

Official spokesman told the correspondent that Tunisia will also receive the contract for the building of the new huge Syrian oil refinery, the same source said.

B-G: Basic Danger of War Exists While Arms Imbalance Remains

Direct Contact Seen as Vital

By ELIJAH SIMON, United Press Correspondent

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion told the United Nations yesterday that "the basic danger of war still exists and there is no sign that any of the Arab states really wants peace." He served notice that "without a balance of forces between Israel and the Arab states it is difficult to believe that there will be no outbreak of war."

Appraising the U.N. Secretary-General's mission to the Middle East and the extent to which it had lessened the danger of war, Mr. Ben-Gurion said: "I hope that Mr. Hammarskjöld's visit has been useful since he brought about, at least for the time being, a cease-fire on the part of Egypt and perhaps also Jordan, and that their attack, which took place after Colonel Abdul Nasser's reaffirmation of the cease-fire—the murder of a young pioneer farmer in Nahal Oz and the placing of a mine not far from the Gaza Strip which caused the death of one soldier and wounding two others."

At 9:30 last night, a second army vehicle struck a mine in the same vicinity and was slightly damaged, though no one was injured.

It was learned that incidents took place in the areas where a mine blew up yesterday.

Incidents, which occurred on April 29, killing one soldier and wounding two others, could be settled by direct action to halt Egypt's shipping through the Suez Canal.

Egyptian forces, led by a group of Arab infiltrators, was found harvesting the fields of Kfar Azza in the Negev, the spokesman said. When the settlers attacked the village, covering fire was opened from Egyptian territory, and the thieves fled across the border to the Gaza Strip.

Shortly before noon, Egyptian forces opened fire from the Gaza Strip, killing one soldier in the kibbutz fields, which was immediately extinguished.

About an hour later, a squad of Egyptian soldiers penetrated about 300 meters into Israel territory but fled back to the Gaza Strip when an Israeli patrol approached.

Commenting on the four incidents which occurred in the Gaza Strip area yesterday, the Foreign Ministry spokesman said:

A most serious view must be taken of these incidents. They are not the first to have occurred since Egypt's obstruction of traffic going to Israel. Has that been raised recently?" he asked.

Mr. Nutting replied that the best way to settle the problem is to get a settlement between Israel and her Arab neighbours.

Asked if the U.N. could do more for the cause of peace once the balance of power has been restored, Mr. Ben-Gurion said: "The balance of forces alone will prevent war, but it will not restore peace. The first step which the U.N. should take towards the establishment of peace is to secure full execution of the Armistice Agreement." Mr. Hammarskjöld has so far achieved only a guarantee of cease-fire, and even this guarantee, which Mr. Hammarskjöld rightly demanded to be unconditional, was not given to him by Syria and Jordan without conditions."

The Suez Canal Company, with the encouragement of the British Government, directors of the company, are now undertaking a careful study of this problem.

East-West Arm Arabs

The chief Labour spokesman on foreign affairs, Mr. Alfred Robens, said that the real point was Egypt's obstruction of traffic going to Syria. There is no sign whatsoever that the U.N. really wants peace. Without a balance of forces between Israel and the Arab states, it is difficult to believe that there will be no outbreak of war."

Mr. Ben-Gurion expressed the certainty that "only by a direct meeting between representatives of Israel and the Arab states in the first instance, representation of Egypt, can there be an improvement in our relations and the paving of the way to peace, if not immediate achievement of a peace treaty."

Arab War Preparations

Q. Does Israel feel that Russia will play any active military role in an Arab-Israel war?

A. "We cannot blind our eyes to the happy fact that the Soviet Union's warlike policies are warlike tanks and guns; nor can we be blind to the fact that several Western powers are doing the same."

Q. Do you think it possible for the U.S. and Britain to rush forces to deal with the Middle East aggressor by time?

H. He has already made an interim progress report to the Council recording his success in obtaining cease-fire assurances from Israel, Egypt, Syria, the Lebanon and Jordan. The full report will give details of the agreements undertaken and their reaction to the proposals the Secretary-General has made at the direction of the Security Council for averting border incidents.

The complete report should be submitted to the Security Council for debate at the beginning of next week.

Is it correct to say that the Armistice Agreement, if fully carried out, the terms of the Armistice Agreement, the result would be that there would be no war in the Middle East?

The Armistice Agreement contains within itself such warlike acts as the boycott of Israel, the sea blockade and other acts of hostility, but would, like us, do nothing in their power to achieve peace."

VIC OLIVER?LAW REPORTThe Jerusalem Post

May 8, 1956

In the Supreme Court Sitting as High Court of Justice

Sifriyah and Goitseri

Sherut Maccabi Ltd. & Others, Petitioners v. the Tel Aviv Municipal Council & Others, Respondents (H.C. 117/55).

Sherut Freidli Petitioner, v. the Tel Aviv Municipal Council & Others, Respondents (H.C. 72/55).

By-Law Controlling Sale of Pork Ultra Vires

The High Court made absolute two consolidated petitions calling on the Municipal Council of Tel Aviv to show cause why the Municipal by-law dealing with the prohibition of pig-raising and the control of the sale of pork in the municipal area should not be declared ultra vires, and why the petitioners should not be allowed to continue selling pork products in their respective butcher shops.

In 1954, the Tel Aviv Municipal Council passed a by-law prohibiting the raising of pigs in the city and the sale of pork products elsewhere than in a public market where such products may be sold only by Sherut Maccabi Ltd. who had brought out Spinettes in Allenby Street, Tel Aviv. In 1954, had carried on the tradition of the legislature in the letter of the law, as long as the courts were satisfied that secondary legislation had come within the framework of the principal legislation. Keeping in mind the additional principle that, looking at the scope and extent of the authority given to municipal councils to deal with matters which concern them in the manner which they deem meet, courts of law should be slow to condemn as invalid any by-law, but should, on the contrary, support it as a by-law whenever possible. It would therefore appear, on the surface, that the right path to choose would be that of discharging the orders nisi. This easy path, however, was closed to the court, for there existed two previous decisions of the High Court which disqualified municipal by-laws prohibiting the sale of pork.

Judge Goiter then analysed two previous decisions of the Tel Aviv Municipal Council, one of which was valid and the other not ultra vires in that it came within the scope of the Municipal Corporations Ordinance of 1954, the strength of section 99, of which it had been promulgated, and in addition, that the High Court had not been called upon to probe behind the scenes in order to discover the motives of the authority given to municipalities to sell food products, they were given a licence which specifically excluded permission to sell food products. The petitioners on the other hand, claimed that the Council's motives were purely local, and that the Council had been considering the introduction of regulations on the subject of food products, which attempted to regulate matters of a religious nature. After quoting from English and Canadian decisions, he concluded that in Israel, too, as in these other countries, matters which are the concern of the whole country fall within the exclusive jurisdiction of the legislature. In our case the Knesset. Undoubtedly the problem of allowing or prohibiting the sale of pork — which depends on religious concepts — is one of general concern and therefore not to be left to the discretion of local bodies.

Orders were made absolute. Decision given on April 30, 1956.

State Claims Yarkoni Contract Not Valid

Judge Goitein, in giving the decision of the High Court, first set out the facts of the case and the arguments of opposing Counsel and then considered whether the Tel Aviv Municipal Council had been given the authority to make the by-law under consideration. He regretted that the Mayor had not specified explicitly from which sub-section of section 99 of the Municipal Corporations Ordinance he had purposed to draw his authority to make the by-law. It was to be presumed that it had been based on sub-section (1) which allows a municipal council to make by-laws to enable or assist it to carry out any of the matters it is required or empowered to do under the Ordinance.

Mr. Pinchuk and Mr. Roth appeared for the petitioners.

Decision given on April 30, 1956.

First Country

Israel was the first country to introduce a national lottery and the Rand Stand and this year decided the floor space to put up extra show cases and stands. The range of her production is by no means shown, for only those goods for which a market might be found here were put on show by Israeli firms. Come over and let us show you the new President and the Administration to draw deeply on the spiritual resources of the nation and to bring us near to a change in the essence of the Zionist Movement.

Habekov (General Zion) does not consider it disappointing that the results of the Zionist Congress deliberations and the new President and the new Administration to draw deeply on the spiritual resources of the nation and to bring us near to a change in the essence of the Zionist Movement.

Nevertheless, the Israeli Government is seeking to expand its sales and to meet the needs of the people. Mr. Vorenberg is to be recommended for getting gold-medalist Ben Zion Wainstein.

It is to be presumed since it had been signed.

It is to be presumed that it had been based on sub-section (1) which allows a municipal council to make by-laws to enable or assist it to carry out any of the matters it is required or empowered to do under the Ordinance.

After examining sections 98, 99 and 100 of the Ordinance, Justice Goitein found that the Council had its eye on section 98(5) of the Ordinance (as amended in 1948) when passing the by-law, which section states that it shall be within the power of the Municipal Council "to regulate and control the sale of produce and animal meat by prohibiting the sale thereof elsewhere than in a public market or otherwise." If it were accepted that "produce" includes pork and any other kind of meat — which he was fully prepared to do — it would seem that there was no discrepancy between section 98(5) and the municipal by-law and that the latter, ostensibly, came to be presumed.

It is to be presumed that the by-law was not ultra vires in that it came within the scope of the Municipal Corporations Ordinance.

Fickle Sun Plays Havoc With Retail Clothing Trade

By YAACOV FRIEDLER

HAIFA, Monday.—The reluctant sun which is keeping back the summer is playing havoc with the outfitting trade and turning local shop window displays topsy-turvy. With one eye on the calendar and the other on the weather, clothing shops are now displaying bathing suits, including some very brief "Bikini" types, together with sweaters, woolen pullovers and even overcoats.

The situation has been made more complicated by the fact that the official "end of winter" sale was held at the beginning of February, in deference to this year's early Passover. The sun, usually reliable in this country, is not playing ball this year and suncoats, rather than bathing trunks, are the more popular garment at present.

This morning a lot of sharp showers. "You don't have to go to the sea to get wet," one customer remarked. The bathing suits are sending down a new window-specter spinned which is accounted only by the promise of revelation they hold out.

Mr. Dan Gabrily, Chairman of the Merchants' Association, stated today that the association weather is harrowing trade. People do not feel it is worthwhile buying more winter clothing now, but are too cold to go in for summer wear. As a result, shops are exceptionally well-stocked, which will have to decide the issue has not yet taken a stand.

At present, no one is inspecting buildings to see whether shelters are being built, or bringing landlords and tenants to court for failure to build.

The Municipality took the first step to see that shelters were built by opening advisory offices and by bringing the heads of the local press notice. Under the law, the landlord and tenant share equally in building a shelter if the house was constructed before July 1, 1945. After that date, the landlord pays 75 per cent and the tenant 25 per cent.

The rains in the Negev caused no damage to the grains now being harvested. Drivers, however, were inconvenienced when they were caught unaware by the downpour and had to cover their loads with a tarpaulin.

Locusts Move On Mashavet Sadeh

BEERSHEBA, Monday.—

Fresh swarms of locusts today invaded the Negev from Revivim to Givatot. They met resistance from the Barakans. Predicted occasional showers for this morning in the northern and central parts of the country, the weatherman promised fair weather for the afternoon.

The mercury dropped to 36 degrees on Mount Canaan, compared to the normal 34 at this time of the year. In Tel Aviv, the temperature low er. As a result, shops are exceptionally well-stocked, which will have to decide the issue has not yet taken a stand.

In many cases, the cost of a shelter is not prohibitive since an entrance has to be made from a stone building, if protected by a thick concrete barrier outside, can provide adequate protection. However, the entrance hall will often have to be buttressed and reinforced.

The Municipality is also making sure that every building is equipped with a shelter as provided by law.

In regard to public buildings, construction of shelters in schools is proceeding swiftly. The foundations have been laid for several public shelters, while plans have been drawn up for all the shelters that are required.

Red Tape Ties Up Shelter Inspection

By MACABEE KASKIN

Construction of shelters in private buildings is lagging in Jerusalem because there is no competent authority to enforce the Civil Defence Law of 1951.

The Jerusalem Municipality claims that enforcement of the law is in the hands of Haga, the Civil Defense Organization. Haga counters with the claim that the Municipality is responsible.

A spokesman for Haga said yesterday that although the law places responsibility for enforcement on Haga, the organization had delegated this authority to the Municipality's Engineering Department.

The Ministry of Interior, which will have to decide the issue has not yet taken a stand.
